

MIDDLESEX.

In 1909 Middlesex dropped from fourth place in the Championship to sixth, their percentage decreasing from 33.33 to 9.09. Of the 21 matches played—one v. Essex was abandoned without a ball bowled—six were won and five lost. Until the end of June they were at the head of the Counties, four of the nine games commenced being won and five drawn. Worcestershire, Surrey and Somerset beat them in quick succession at Lord's, and defeats following at Canterbury and Manchester the record for the season was only a moderate one. Tarrant was the strong man of the side, scoring 1,223 runs with an average of 37.06 and taking 108 wickets at a cost of 17.23 runs each; he headed both batting and bowling averages and thoroughly deserved his success. P. F. Warner, without doing anything sensational, batted very consistently, and both Murrell and Hendren played some fine innings, but there was a very pronounced tail to the side. Apart from Tarrant, the bowling was rather disappointing, though Mignon did very well on occasions. Trott lost his sting to a great extent and Hearne (J. T.), in his twenty-second year of first-class cricket, naturally did not meet with so much success as formerly. Murrell, in addition to playing some good innings, kept wicket very well indeed.

NORTHAMPTONSHIRE.

The improved form of Northamptonshire was one of the most marked and most pleasing features of the season. In 1908 they won only 3 and lost 14 of the 22 matches played, while this year their record showed 9 games won, 8 lost and one drawn. The County advanced from fifteenth place to seventh, and experienced the most successful season of their existence. For their improved form they were indebted largely to the all-round play of S. G. Smith, the West Indian cricketer, who, having completed his qualification, assisted the side throughout the season. He was practically top of the batting averages and really second to Thompson in bowling. It says much for the impression he made during his first full season of English cricket that he should have been chosen, strictly on his merits, for the Gentlemen v. Players both at Lord's and the Oval. Thompson, as usual, did excellent work both in batting and bowling, whilst Vials, Pool and Manning showed improved batting form and a young player of much promise was discovered in J. S. Denton, of Wellingborough Grammar School. In the early part of the season a disagreement with some of the professionals appeared likely to upset the side completely, but matters, fortunately, were smoothed over. Of the seven first matches played they lost six and drew one, but their subsequent form was so good that nine of the remaining games were won and only two lost.

MINOR COUNTIES' CHAMPIONSHIP

NOTTS. II. v. CHESHIRE.

The match between Notts. II. and Cheshire, which will decide the championship of the Northern section, opened at Trent Bridge yesterday. The Notts. captain won the toss, and the wicket having been softened by the downpour in the morning, put the visitors in. The game started an hour late, and Cheshire entered the field with only ten men. The pitch dried rapidly, and in the hour before lunch McLaren and Fallows put on 55. Buckley opened with a leg boundary, and 17 were added before lunch.

When play was resumed the batsmen settled down, and frequent changes in the bowling were without effect until 91, when Buckley was caught for 26, compiled in 55 minutes. Fallows was mainly responsible for the run getting, and after a couple of hours the century was reached, Fallows completing his 50 a quarter of an hour later. A downpour interfered with play for half an hour, and soon after the game had recommenced Voss retired for 17. A well delivered ball by Barnes dismissed Fallows, who had contributed 60, which included three 4's, four 3's, and six 2's. Not a run had been added before Hamilton was bowled by Clifton, and the remaining batsmen quickly left, the last six wickets falling for 17 runs.

Notts. opened well, James and Carr hitting out in beautiful style, and in the hour remaining for play scored 86, James contributing 54 and A. W. Carr 28. Score and analysis:

In connection with the protest to the M.C.C. by the Rev. G. B. Barless, acting captain of Norfolk, against Lincolnshire on Wednesday last, on the ground that the wicket at Lincoln had been over-watered, Mr. R. K. Wilson, the Norfolk captain, has sent a long statement to the M.C.C. in which he states that it was admitted by the Lincolnshire captain that there had been carelessness in the preparation of the wicket, that immediately on his (Mr. Wilson's) arrival at the ground he found the Lincolnshire captain inspecting the wicket, and the latter at once informed him that he thought there was something wrong, as the wicket appeared to have been very heavily watered at the end nearest the pavilion, and it was suggested that a new wicket should be prepared, but this idea was given up owing to both sides of the wicket provided being badly worn.

NOTTS. II. TOP THE NORTHERN SECTION.

GREAT VICTORY OVER CHESHIRE.

The outstanding feature of the brilliant performance of Notts. Second Eleven in defeating Cheshire by an innings and 15 runs at Trent Bridge yesterday was the masterly display of James, who compiled 152 in two hours and forty minutes. The overnight total was 86 for none, and on restarting James hit lustily. His first twelve strokes yielded a 5, eight 4's, two 3's, and one single, and he completed his first century of the season in an hour and a half. In the meantime Carr had not been idle, and reached his 50 soon after James got three figures. James's downfall was not brought about until he had made 172 out of 275 in two hours and forty minutes, and some idea of his methods will be obtained when it is stated that his innings included a 5 and twenty-eight 4's. Within a few minutes of his departure Notts. declared. Carr had meanwhile completed his century, and the spectators accorded the sixteen year old amateur an ovation when he retired. He hit ten 4's.

On the resumption it looked as though the long stand which marked the opening of Cheshire's first innings would be repeated, but at 43 Riley went on and dismissed Voss with his second ball, after which Wilson, Fallows, Jones, and Turner left for the addition of 13. Hamilton and Buxton made a stand, but after a bright innings the professional was caught when the score was at 92. The innings closed after lasting two and a half hours, and Notts. won easily.
