

FIRST-CLASS CRICKETERS WHO ATTENDED OXFORD UNIVERSITY BUT NEVER PLAYED FIRST-CLASS CRICKET FOR THE UNIVERSITY

Listed here are all those first-class cricketers known to have studied at Oxford University, but who never played in a first-class match for the University side.

The list includes a small number of cricketers whose Oxford college is not known. It may be that some of these were not students at the University, even though they studied at an academic venue in the city.

Additional information to fill the gaps in this table, or otherwise to improve its contents, would be welcome. Please send any new information to contact@acscricket.com

Test cricketers are named in bold type.

In addition, TP Corner played one first-class match for Cambridge University (against Oxford) in 2018. He later studied at Oxford (Merton College), where he played in the 50-over University Matches in 2021, and was in the team for the rained-off 50-over fixture in 2022; but because by then the universities had lost first-class status, he never had the chance to play first-class cricket for the University while at Oxford.
