Edmund, John and Richard Hurst above, who all played in the same match, are probably related, but not members of the university. The match in which they played is recorded in Bell's Life as 'The Marylebone Cricket Club with Dean and Hillyer, against the University of Oxford with the three Hursts and Burden [sic: should be Burrin]', and is similarly styled in S & B. The Hursts were clearly guests in the OU XI. Four players named Hurst – E, R, John and James – played regularly for Cowley in the 1830s and 1840s, often against the University side. I cannot trace a plausible James Hurst in contemporary censuses, but the 1841 census shows three brothers Edward (sic, 1815 to 9.7.1866), John (1817 to 4.3.1868) and Richard (1818 to 15.7.1873) living with their family in Cowley. The dates of birth and death of John and Richard, taken from online family trees (and, for the two deaths in 1866 and 1868, corroborated by probate records) tally with the details given above. I cannot find an Edmund Hurst in Cowley around this time, and I strongly suspect that this is an error for 'Edward'.
